Chapter 254: Unyielding Power of the Dark Heavenly Soldiers

The Dark Heavenly Soldiers, forged by Sung Jin-Woo's will and born of the fruits of the Divine Trees, were unrivaled protectors of their sacred charges. Their might and loyalty were absolute, ensuring that no force, no matter how ambitious or immortal, could monopolize or threaten the Divine Trees.

The Power of the Dark Heavenly Soldiers

1. Unparalleled Strength:

Each Dark Heavenly Soldier possessed a minimum power level of S^{999}-Rank, their abilities honed to perfection. These soldiers were a blend of physical prowess, mastery of shadow abilities, and advanced combat techniques.

Their two obsidian wings symbolized their divine origin and granted them extraordinary mobility and combat versatility.

2. Generals of the Dark Heavenly Soldiers:

Rank and Wings: The generals were even more fearsome, each bearing four wings and wielding power equivalent to S^{9999}-Rank—a force so overwhelming that they could obliterate armies single-handedly.

Strategic Placement: Each Divine Tree was guarded by at least ten generals, ensuring an impenetrable line of defense. These generals not only commanded their troops but also acted as living fortresses, repelling even the strongest threats.

Eternal Defense Against Greed

Despite the impenetrable fortifications, challengers arose—immortal beings and powerful entities seeking to monopolize the Divine Trees for their immense energy and creation potential.

1. The Fate of the Challengers:

Immortal Arrogance: Some immortals believed their endless lifespan and advanced techniques would grant them an edge over the Dark Heavenly Soldiers.

Swift Retaliation: They were met with unrelenting force. The Dark Heavenly Soldiers' mastery of shadow manipulation, telekinesis, invisibility, and shadow summons left no room for escape or victory.

2. Complete Eradication:

Any creature or entity attempting to exploit or dominate a Divine Tree was immediately exterminated, leaving no trace of rebellion.

Public Warnings: The remains of the fallen challengers served as grim reminders near the Divine Trees, deterring future attempts.

The Generals’ Role in Defending the Divine Trees

The generals' role extended beyond mere guardianship:

1. Commanding the Forces:

The generals led their troops with precision, ensuring that every soldier operated at peak efficiency.

In battle, they coordinated large-scale maneuvers, combining shadow-based tactics with overwhelming firepower.

2. Personal Intervention:

When particularly powerful challengers emerged, the generals themselves stepped forward. Their four wings and S^{9999}-Rank power made them nearly invincible in combat.

Few battles lasted more than a moment when a general intervened; their power dwarfed even the strongest foes.

3. Guardians of Civilization:

Beyond warfare, the generals oversaw the flourishing civilizations around the Divine Trees, ensuring that the soldiers' families and allied creatures coexisted in harmony.

The Unbreakable Cycle of Protection

The Divine Trees became synonymous with absolute safety under the guardianship of the Dark Heavenly Soldiers and their generals. No being dared to approach with hostile intent, for the cost of failure was annihilation.

1. Legacy of Strength:

The Dark Heavenly Soldiers’ strength was not merely physical but also a testament to Sung Jin-Woo’s unyielding will and the divine power of the Second World Tree.

Their unmatched power ensured that the trees would continue to spread, multiplying across the multiverse and embedding Sung Jin-Woo’s dominion deeper into existence.

2. An Eternal Warning:

The multiverse learned a simple truth: to challenge the guardians of the Divine Trees was to invite certain doom.

Thus, the Dark Heavenly Soldiers stood as an eternal bulwark against chaos, their unshakable resolve safeguarding the Divine Trees for millennia to come. No force in existence could contend with their might, ensuring the Sovereign’s reign remained absolute.